Dear Parents and Carers

Ministerial Visit to Churchfields Junior School

I am writing to let you know that the Rt Hon Nick Gibb, Minister of State for School Standards will be visiting Churchfields Junior School on Monday 26th March.

The Minister is keen to visit the School in recognition of our achievements and excellence. Members of the British Council will also attend and present Alyssa Malley with an award recognising her success in the Commonwealth Writing Competition. This is the second consecutive year in which pupils from Churchfields Junior School have been successful in this prestigious event, in which so many other students throughout the Commonwealth take part.

Writing is a strength of our School. During his tour, the Minister will be talking to staff and pupils about how our School ethos, values and the wealth of opportunities that we provide enable pupils to develop outstanding language skills as well as a cultural understanding of the Commonwealth. As part of this visit, pupils are encouraged to think about questions that they would like to be posed to Commonwealth Heads of Government at the summit meeting hosted by the UK Government in April.

Pupils from the School have also been invited to write an article to be used in subsequent government publications.

Members of the press will be accompanying the Minister so please ensure that your child is extra smart and well presented on the day; wearing correct School uniform. If you do not wish your child to be included in a news broadcast or photographs, please email the School before 8am on Monday 26th March.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all staff and pupils for the incredible work and their relentless commitment which makes Churchfields Junior School a flourishing seat of learning.

Yours Sincerely

Rebecca Emeny

Head Teacher
